The Current Situation

The days of simple problems with simple solutions is behind us “what got you here won’t get you there” and navigating the current business environment requires new leadership skills

The Challenge ahead

Closing performance gaps to drive strategic change require new learning channels as current ones focusing only on leadership competencies are inadequate

Our business coaching offerings help leading companies scale their leadership capacity - increase (team) leadership performance and agility by reducing inefficiencies [i.e. skills deficit; outdated mental models; rigid structures] and improve teamwork culture, unlike other external interventions.

“Change programmes” have a positive impact if leadership development incorporates vertical and horizontal learning

Inquiry: We perform a factual leadership diagnostic at the beginning of an assignment through interviews and gathering existing 360 assessment data

Executive Leadership Coaching: As within so without - the new pillars of intelligent leadership enabling you to align your inner core with your outer core, gaining leadership agility in order to attain higher productivity

Team Facilitation Workshop: Survival easily replaces strategic planning in many companies leaving less room for vision and less room to listen to new possibilities - We help our clients achieve strategic alignment in order to drive growth

Team Coaching: The results of an organisation are a direct consequence of the performance of its teams – We support effective team alignment by closing gaps on perception and reality on role, structure and functioning of your team

Review and Sustain: We conduct thorough ROE/ROI evaluations with your stakeholders during and at the end of any engagement

You can scale your leadership capacity without having to create competing priorities leading to change fatigue. If you've answered 'YES' to one of these statements, we may be able to help you:

- The new environmental context with its pace of change requires the new capacity to prevent stagnation and leading effectively
- The challenges of the "VUCA" (volatile, uncertain, complex, ambiguous) environment of the 21st century require a new roadmap for change to fix XYZ
- Solving today's problems with a new set of tools for the leadership journey of the 21st century
- Gaining leadership agility in order to avoid burnout and enjoying sustained success

"The development of leadership effectiveness must, at minimum, keep pace with the rate of change and the rate of escalating complexity."
